A landmark 10-year study undertaken by the World Health Organisation has found that people who speak on their handset for more than half an hour a day for over 10 years are at risk of brain cancer...

'Mobile radiation ups cancer risk'
Solution Lies In Reducing Transmitted Power From Towers, Says Researcher

Though "the 4.5 GHz mobile towers in India are turning the country into an open microwave" warns Chhota Prasad, member secretary of IIT Madras.

Prakash Murthy, who has conducted research on mobile radiation, said, "While the power levels used in cell phone towers are kept to a minimum, the radiation is still high enough to cause health problems."

Experts warn speaking at the national level on mobile phone use and tower placement is important to reduce the risk of cancer.

Using examples of Switzerland, Denmark and Sweden, the WHO panel said that mobile phone use has increased significantly since the late 1980s. In Sweden, the use of mobile phones has increased from 1% in 1987 to 100% in 2000.
